2 New feature added

We added the change habit function that allows the user to edit an already existing habit. First it creates a window similar to change user”where then the user can select the habit they wish to change. Then a window similar to insert habit”shows up but with the values written in the habit that is already inserted, the user can then finish their change by clicking the change Habit”button.

3 Change added

The possibility to choose each day you want to do that habit on was added to the already existing static weekly amount. When making, or changing a habit, the user has the chance to click on checkboxes to choose specific days to do that habit on. The habit will then only be shown on the days chosen by the user, and not on any other days.
